Allowable Subject Matter

All claim objections and rejections are hereby withdrawn in view of the amendment dated June 7, 2004.

An updated survey of the prior art did not yield a reference more germane than those already cited. Although there exists in the art numerous examples of a polysiloxane rubber-based composition wherein silver particles and an organic matrix are added thereto, none of these contain silver particles having the mandated particle size. (In most instances, the silver filler being added had dimensions on the micrometer scale.)

Cited as being of interest is the abstract of an article entitled "Plasma Enhanced Deposition of Silver Nanoparticles onto Polymer and Metal Surfaces for the Generation of Antimicrobial Characteristics". As the title suggests, this document teaches silicone rubber articles onto which silver nanoparticle thin films are provided by a deposition technique. Insofar as the silver nanoparticles are not introduced by blending, there would be no motivation to add a dispersion agent. In arguendo, this document does not antedate the effective filing date of the present application.

The references mentioned during this prosecution represent the most germane available. Because they fail to even render obvious the instant claims, claims 1-14 are allowable.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
